

Brandon Lynn Shane Bio

Brandon Lynn Shane knows country music. Whether he's performing for this fans, writing songs, or producing the latest indie country music artists, he conveys the heart and soul of country music. His music is modern and current, but he hasn't abandoned the sounds and traditions of country music to chase the latest fads.

Brandon was raised in Texas, which influenced him greatly. Not only did the Texas music sound affect the music he created, but he also learned about country music from his father, Bob, who played in a country music band. Brandon followed in his father's footsteps, performing in bands and touring the nation. He became a seasoned stage veteran touring with or opening for several artists and bands including the Colt band out of Dallas, TX, Johnny Bush, Tony Booth, Hank Thompson, David Frizzell and Shelly West, Johnny Rodriguez, Ray Price, Ernest Tubb, Darrell McCall, John Wesley Ryles, Restless Heart, Travis Tritt, Larry Butler, Mel McDaniels, The Mason Dixon Band, John Anderson, Steve Wariner, Kenny Dale, Tanya Tucker, Fiddlin Frenchie Burke, and Red Stegall. He even headlined at Billy Bob's in Ft. Worth, Texas.

Brandon is a prolific songwriter, having written thousands of songs in various styles including country (traditional and new), Gospel, and western swing.

After winning the Tennessee Valley Vocalist of the Year award in 2002, Brandon decided to move to Nashville to focus on writing songs and producing indie country music artists. He regularly appears at writers venues like The Hall of Fame Club, The Sutlers, The French Quarter Café, and the Broken Spoke.

In the producing world, Brandon is one of the hottest indie country music producers today. His company, Mirror Image Productions, uses some of Nashville's Top "A List" session pickers to produce music that is as good as any major label product. Brandon knows how to bring the best out of the artists he produces. Artists he has produced include Darlene Marie McCoy, Melissa Cleveland, Nicole Nichols (Joe Nichols cousin), Jeff Smithart, Marie Hodson, and Natalie Logan.

One of the truly good guys in the music industry, Brandon is dedicated to sharing his experiences with new and indie artists. He gives the artists he produces sound, solid advice and is now passing that knowledge onto a larger audience. He is the co-founder of MuseRevolution.com and editor of MuseRevolution Magazine, which are both dedicated to helping indie country music artists and advancing independent country music.

Brandon Lynn Shane embodies country music. He has lived the life of a touring artist, he has written thousands of songs, he is producing a growing number of indie country music artists, and now he's passing on the knowledge he has gained in 35 years of experience in the country music industry.
